Negotiations with inmates progress

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal authorities reported progress Tuesday in negotiations with Cuban inmates holding 90 hostages at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary but cautioned that a settlement of the 9-day-old siege was not imminent.

"We found at this point there is apparently substantial agreement on a number of issues, and it is fair to say that this latest discussion was considerably more encouraging than others we have had over the past few days," Justice Department spokesman Pat Korten said of a one-hour session with four leaders of inmates who control the prison.

He said a "small minority" of inmates who had been blocking any agreement to end the prison revolt do "not have as great a role as they used to."

"It remains to be seen whether the general detainee population will go along with the terms on which we have apparent agreement," he said, without disclosing any details of the talks. "The detainee negotiators have now gone back to discuss the progress made so far with others inside."

Korten said another negotiating session was planned for later in the day, but a final resolution was not imminent.

"I don't want to unduly raise anybody's hopes," he said. "It's encouraging but that is all for the moment."

Federal authorities said they were prepared to bring in Roman Catholic Bishop Agustin Roman to help end the prison takeover once the Cubans "have their act together."

Cubans arrive at Marion

MARION (UPI) — The nation's most secure federal prison is handling some of the overflow of Cuban prisoners resulting from recent uprisings at federal prisons in Louisiana and Atlanta.

George Wilson, executive assistant to the warden of the Marion Federal Penitentiary, said Tuesday that 50 Cubans arrived Monday from the federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind., which is being used as processing point for relocated Cuban prisoners.

"They had to have some place to put them and we were the only facility that was not overpopulated," Wilson said. He said Marion, sometimes called "The New Alcatraz," is the only exclusively single-cell facility in the federal system.

Phi Sigma Kappa defends image amid sex charges

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternities at two Illinois universities have been handicapped with sex-related charges, but an SIU-C fraternity member says a setting for such offences does not exist at this University.

"We follow the cardinal rules of brotherhood, scholarship and character. They don't," Brent Neas, vice president for Phi Sigma Kappa, said.

The chapter at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston lost its charter on Sept. 30 after a woman said she had been handcuffed to a staircase for several hours after a Pimp and Whore theme party, according to the Daily Eastern News.

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity members at Western Illinois University in Macomb face a hearing today to determine if the fraternity should be penalized for alleged sexual assault charges.

The hearing is being conducted by the Interfraternity Council judicial board and the Council of Student Welfare.

It will consist of an initial hearing, a judicial board decision on whether the fraternity is at fault, a verdict by the Council of Student Welfare and the presentation about the case to Ron Gierhan, vice president of student affairs, for a final decision, according to the Western Courier on Nov. 23.

The charges allege a Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority member was sexually assaulted by several Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity members during an exchange on Nov. 7. The Daily Eastern News reported on Nov. 17 that the woman allegedly made sexual advances toward members of the fraternity and went into a room with one of the members. However, what happened during the remainder of the evening is unclear because several different stories have been told. Jim Puppura, president of Phi Sigma Kappa, told a Eastern reporter.

Paul Kachinovas, the investigating detective for the Macomb Police Department, said Tuesday that police have closed the investigation.

"We conducted a criminal sexual assault investigation and the woman declined to press charges," Kachinovas said. "The case is closed as far as we're concerned at the Macomb Police Department."

National Phi Sigma Kappa representatives will be present in Macomb today for the hearing, a fraternity spokesman said.

"They're (the national organization) behind us all the way," the spokesman said.

"The university is just following up on the incident, as they call it. We'll be cleared tomorrow though. The police have already quit their investigation."

Repair of water line continues

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

Pulliam Hall may have water today if workers are able to clamp off a break in the water main in the hallway between Wham and Pulliam halls.

As of Tuesday afternoon, Physical Plant Workers were still digging down to the water line, which broke about 6 p.m. Monday, Harrel Lerch, superintendent of maintenance, said. The water was shut off in Pulliam after the break was discovered.

If workers are able to reach the break and clamp it off Tuesday night, the water will be turned back on today, Lerch said. The cost of repairing the break can't be determined until workers reach it.

No major flooding was caused by the break in the water line, Lerch said.

If workers are not able to clamp off the break in the water line, the water line may have to be rerouted, he said. An outside contractor would have to be brought in to do the

City spends more on Halloween this year

By Jacke Hampton
Staff Writer

The city spent more than ever on this year's Halloween celebration, primarily to help stage 10 hours of Grand Avenue entertainment, according to a report released Tuesday.

The net cost of the celebration was $19,022, an increase of $688 or 4 percent over 1986, a memo prepared by Jeff Doherty, assistant city manager, said. The city spent $841 to help stage entertainment events, the report said.

The city's report, reports by student groups involved in Halloween activities and a preliminary report on the celebration's impact on local businesses will be reviewed by the Halloween Core Committee this morning at El Greco restaurant, 516 South Illinois.

The chamber of commerce report, which was designed to determine what effect the celebration has on large retailers such as those found at the University Mall, probably will not be final for several months, Jim Prowell, president of the chamber, said. Prowell surveyed eight large retail stores and asked them to compare Halloween sales here with Halloween sales in similar towns that do not have a large celebration.

"We haven't come up with what I had intended," Prowell said. "What I have is a lot of generic answers. It's hard to translate those answers into dollars and cents."

Prowell in previous years has estimated the amount of money brought in to the community by the out-of-town revellers, believed to have

N. Iowa's Boyd named Gateway Player of the Year

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Running back Carl Boyd of Northern Iowa was named Tuesday as the Player of the Year for the Gateway Conference.

Boyd, a 5-foot-7-inch, 166-pound senior from Chicago, led the conference in receiving with 50 catches for 705 yards and five touchdowns. He finished second in the league in rushing with 973 yards on 207 carries and 11 touchdowns. He also led the league in scoring with 96 points.

Boyd also was a first-team selection last year and a second-team choice in 1985.

Northern Iowa, which has advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs, won the league championship with a perfect 6-0 record.

The Defensive Player of the Year was Matt Soraghan, a 6-foot-2-inch, 232-pound senior linebacker from Southwest Missouri State.

Soraghan led Southwest Missouri in solo tackles with 80 and added 103 assisted tackles. He recorded 11 sacks with 45 yards in losses and also intercepted two passes. During the season, Soraghan earned Defensive Player of the Week awards three times.

The league named coaches of the year in Northern Iowa's Darrell Mudra and Bruce Craddock of Western Illinois, whose team improved from 2-4 last year in league play to 5-1. It was Mudra's second Coach of the Year honor in the Gateway Conference.

Men's basketball coach Rich Herrin hopes to point the Salukis to their third win of the season. Undefeated after two games, the Salukis challenge Evansville at 7:35 p.m. in the Arena.

Evansville to test Salukis' 2-0 mark

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The men's basketball team will face its biggest test of the young season against Evansville at 7:35 tonight in the Arena.

SIU-C, 2-0, renews its rivalry against Evansville, who beat Austin Peay 86-79 in its only game of the season.

Evansville coach Jim Crews has five returning starters from last season's 16-12 team, which finished tied for first with Loyola in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference. This season, coaches and media picked the Aces to finish third behind Xavier and St. Louis.

Saluki coach Rich Herrin said the key will be stopping high-scoring forward Marty Simmons.

Simmons was Mr. Basketball in Illinois after leading Lawrenceville High School to back-to-back Class A state championships. He was a teammate of former Saluki forward-turned-manager Doug Novsek when Lawrenceville captured its first title in 1982.

Simmons played two years at Indiana before transferring after falling in Bobby Knight's doghouse for gaining too much weight.

The 6-foot-6 senior flourished in his first season at Evansville, averaging 22.4 points last year. In the Aces' opener this season, Simmons scored 35 points.

"We can't completely forget everybody else," Herrin said. "But we have to emphasize (to our team) how important it is to stop Marty Simmons."

House will draw the defensive assignment against Simmons.

Kai Nurnberger will go against the Aces' second leading scorer, Scott Haffner. Last season, the junior point guard averaged 17.9 points per game. Haffner is the nation's leading returning free throw shooter at 90.9 percent.

Evansville's other starters include center Dan Goffread, who scored 18 against Austin Peay, forward Brian Hill and guard Ve'lra Dawson.

SIU-C will counter with Tim Richardson, Todd Krueger and Middleton.

Rick Shipley, who is averaging 12.5 ppg and 10.5 rpg, Sterling Mahan and Griffin will be the first Salukis off the bench.

Herrin said he envisions Shipley becoming a starter in the future. He expects Krueger, who is averaging 3.0 ppg and 3.0 rpg, to play about 20 minutes and Shipley about 27 minutes per game. In the first two games, Shipley has received 27.5 minutes to Krueger's 13.5 minutes a game.

"I don't know when Shipley will start," Herrin said. "He's getting playing time and that's important. He'll be a starter, but we'll make that decision when it comes time."

With the Salukis off to a quick start and with the reputation of Evansville coming to the Arena, a bigger crowd than usual is expected.

"I think anytime you win, it puts people into the Arena," Herrin said. "People like to see winners, there's no doubt about it. You can promote and sell, but you have to win ball games to put people into the Arena."

Spikers set three records, conclude season at 15-19

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Neither prayer nor a pact with the devil could help the volleyball team shake the injury bugaboo this season.

Of 11 players on the roster, nine suffered from some type of injury or illness — which kept student trainer Kelly Halliburton scrambling throughout the campaign.

The result of a bruised and battered team was a final record of 15 wins and 19 losses. The .441 winning percentage was the worst since 1983, when injuries to Linda Sanders and Chris Boyd resulted in a 9-23 (.281) mark.

Coach Debbie Hunter ended her 13th season with a career record of 282-219-9.

The most devastating setback was the loss of senior-setter Sue Sinclair, who sat out the season after re-injuring her right knee in a preseason scrimmage against Southeast Missouri.

During a mid-October road trip through Kansas and Missouri, the Saluki active roster dwindled to seven. Two key players missing from that swing were Dorothy Buchannan and Nina Brackins, both out with sprained right ankles.

Thompson

Buchannan

Other players who coped with injuries or illness included Amy Johnson (back, thumb), Teri Noble (tendonitis), Lori Simpson (left foot, right knee), Joan Wallenberg (flu), Dawn Thompson (bruised eye) and Linda Walker (thumb).

The Salukis did put together a five-match win streak, defeating Missouri, Eastern Illinois, Bradley, Western Illinois and Drake in the last two weeks of October.

Yet, the season ended with Salukis losing five straight to Illinois State, Texas A&M, Houston, Northern Iowa and Nebraska.

In tournament action the Salukis captured their own Southern Classic in October when Brackins had an MVP performance of 41 kills in two matches. Thompson was named to the all-tourney team.

The Salukis took fourth at the Saluki Invitational in September. Buchannan made the all-tourney team.

The Salukis took 10th at the Brigham Young Preview and third at the Arizona Classic. The highlight of the Arizona tournament was upsetting then 19th-ranked Penn State.

In Gateway action, the Salukis tied Illinois State for third with a 6-3 record. They were defeated by eventual champion Northern Iowa in the conference tournament semi-final. Buchannan was named second team all-Gateway and Thompson honorable mention.

Two school records were broken and one tied this season. Buchannan tied the single match record of eight solo blocks Sept. 17 against Indiana. Pat Nicholson set the mark against Bradley Nov. 11, 1984.

Thompson eclipsed Barb Clark's 1982 record of 1,074 assists in a single season Nov. 6 against Indiana State. The new mark is 1,253.

Wallenberg surpassed Sinclair's 1985 record of 356 digs in a single season Nov. 13 at Texas A&M. She finished with 390. Thompson also broke the old mark with 366.

Women's basketball ranked No. 14 by AP

The Saluki women's basketball team was ranked 14th in this week's Associated Press national coaches poll.

Coach Cindy Scott's team, which lost to 11th-ranked Georgia before it defeated Missouri at the Amana-Hawkeye Classic in Iowa City, Iowa last weekend, moved up from the No. 16 spot it occupied in the AP's preseason poll.

This matches the highest ranking the Salukis have received by the AP. They were ranked 14th last year.

Defending national champ Tennessee (2-0) remained in first, receiving 52 first-place votes. Texas (3-0) was second and had two votes for first. In third, Auburn (2-0) had five votes for first. Long Beach State (1-0) was fourth, with one first-place vote while Louisiana Tech (2-0) was in fifth.

Suspects in plane bombing attempt suicide in airport

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — A man and woman suspected of planting a bomb aboard a Korean Air Lines jet that crashed in Burma were nabbed Tuesday at Bahrain airport, but they bit into poison-laced cigarettes in a suicide attempt and the man died, officials said. The woman fell unconscious but was expected to survive to face interrogation on what role, if any, she and the older man played in sending KAL Flight 858 with 115 people aboard crashing into a rebel-controlled area of Burma near the Thai border.

Tamil rebels attack Indian troops in Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Suspected Tamil militants detonated a land mine beneath an Indian army truck in northern Sri Lanka, killing five troops and wounding five during a flare-up in hostilities between the two sides, officials said Tuesday. A Sri Lankan military official said rebels staged the attack late Monday near Vavuniya, 160 miles north of Colombo, as a convoy of Indian troops drove along the main highway leading toward northern Jaffna peninsula.

China bans practice of parading criminals

BEIJING (UPI) — China has banned its ancient and widespread practice of parading criminals through the streets to humiliate them and serve as a warning to others, the official China Legal News reported Tuesday. The newspaper said the central authorities circulated a document in July 1986 that said such exhibitions "do not conform with the needs of a socialist civilization, have a negative impact on society and should be resolutely stopped."

France denies exchanging arms for hostages

PARIS (UPI) — France, bitterly condemned by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and the British press, denied a London newspaper report Tuesday that it agreed to deliver arms to Iran in exchange for the freedom of two French hostages. The British newspaper Independent also said the reported deal required France to provide "aid" to "the poor" of the Shiite-dominated southern suburbs of Beirut.

Reagan says peace is ultimate goal of summit

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — One week from his third exercise in superpower summitry, President Reagan declared Tuesday his goal is not just conclusion of a historic arms agreement, but "true peace," predicated on progress across the front of U.S.-Soviet relations. Insisting his "steady, strong and determined" dealings with Moscow have reaped results at the bargaining table, Reagan cast his Dec. 8 to 10 talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev as a potential turning point in superpower relations.

Greenspan opposes financial system overhaul

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan urged Congress Tuesday against an immediate overhaul of the U.S. financial system, despite weaknesses that nearly closed exchanges after the stock market crash. Taking issue with four members on the Senate Banking Committee who have proposed sweeping changes of the financial regulatory system, Greenspan said lawmakers should move on a step-by-step basis rather than set up a new financial structure in one piece of legislation.

Court blocks suit to punish waterway polluters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court narrowed the right of citizens to sue companies for polluting the nation's waterways Tuesday, blocking attempts to punish firms for past abuses of environmental law. In an 8-0 decision, the court said citizens could only go to court over ongoing violations of the Clean Water Act, reversing a federal appeals court ruling that allowed residents to sue for past breaches of the federal law.

Mother pleads guilty in daughter's rape case

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Bronx woman pleaded guilty to rape Tuesday, admitting she held her 6-year-old daughter down while the child was sexually assaulted by two men in exchange for cash and crack for the mother. Shelly Carter, 20, pleaded guilty to four counts of rape at her arraignment. She faces up to 25 years in prison when she is sentenced on Dec. 16 by state Supreme Court Justice Lawrence Bernstein.

Twin sisters get identical autos

By Curtis Winston
Entertainment Editor

Identical twin sisters from Carbondale soon will possess identical automobiles, which one sister won in a contest. The cars were the prizes of the "Levi's 501 National Rock Test," aired during "American Top 40" on local radio station WCIL-FM.

Selene Carpenter, 19, a student at John A. Logan College in Carterville, was the first contestant to correctly identify six mystery rock artists who were featured during the six week contest, aired this summer.

"It felt great to win something," Carpenter said. Although the cars haven't been delivered yet, she said she should be getting them soon.

After identifying the six artists the contest official asked Carpenter, "What are you going to do with the second car?" Carpenter immediately said, "I'm going to give it to my twin sister Sheila of course!"

Carpenter said she entered the contest by mailing 15 postcards to the ABC Radio Network, which owns "American Top 40." Carpenter was called at her home at 300-B E. Elm St. by contest officials in New York City.

Carpenter correctly named Michael Jackson, Tina Turner, Lionel Richie, Elvis Presley, Madonna and Bruce Springsteen as the six mystery rock artists to win the two 1988 Pontiac LeMans Aerocoupes.

The fact that the identical cars were being awarded to identical sisters really surprised the contest official, Carpenter said, adding "they (the contest caller) were really surprised when I told them no one in my family has ever owned a car."

In October, ABC arranged to have the Carpenter sisters flown to Los Angeles for a two day trip during which they met "American Top 40" host Casey Kasem and selected their cars.

The trip to Los Angeles was the first time the twins had ever been in a plane, and after dinner at L.A.'s Hard Rock Cafe, they were treated to their first walk on an ocean beach.

Carpenter said her family moved to Carbondale from Chicago when she and her sister "were still babies." She said she has lived in Carbondale for about 18 years.

"American Top 40" is a four hour weekly radio program that counts the 40 most popular on Billboard magazine's "Hot 100" chart, which lists the 100 top selling pop singles in the nation. The program airs on 495 stations in the U.S., reaching 7.9 million listeners each week.

Billboard magazine is a weekly trade publication for the broadcasting and music industry.

Pettit to chair march

Libby Pettit, wife of SIU-C Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit, has been named chairperson of the University's 1988 March of Dimes Campaign.

Pettit, who has participated in the March of Dimes Mothers marches, will oversee planning done by the campaign's executive committee.

"I hope we will get many students involved and raise even more money than last year," Pettit said in a press release.

Pettit said the campaign is an excellent way for students to become involved in civic life.

In the 1987 campaign, SIU-C became the first university nationwide to help in the annual door-to-door collection, which is traditionally organized and carried out by mothers.

Samuel E. McVay, director of Student Health Programs, said the regional March of Dimes program had virtually died when students began a push to rejuvenate it last year.

"Now, we think it's back to stay," McVay said. Last year's march raised $5,000.

The 1988 Students March for Mothers is set for Jan. 30.

Other committee members for the 1988 Students March for Mothers are: Victoria J. Mofese, acting director of the University's Office of Research Development and Administration; Chad B. Ruback, a student representing the Public Relations Student Society of America; Max L. Waldron, routing supervisor at the Physical Plant; Vivian Ugent, coordinator of American Red Cross Blood Drives in Southern Illinois, and McVay.

University shamed by tenure scandal

IT IS AN embarrassment to the entire University that William Hammond has been forced to take a long-festering tenure grievance into federal court. Hammond, an associate professor hired by the School of Music in 1983, has been embroiled for more than a year in a bitter tenure fight with the School of Music and University administrators.

Hammond's travails began in Oct. 1986, when the School of Music's tenured faculty voted 12 to 3 against recommending him for tenure. Hammond then appealed to the music school's promotion and tenure committee, which also gave him a thumbs down. Hammond's frustrations continued when SIU-C President John Guyon upheld the promotion and tenure committee's negative vote, declaring that Hammond lacked the now infamous and mysterious trait of collegiality, so supposedly vital in a tenured personality. As an added insult, the SIU Board of Trustees two weeks ago refused to review Hammond's case. The Board said it found no evidence that Hammond was discriminated against.

IT MUST NOT have looked very far. Even if Hammond was a nondescript, unspectacular instructor, which he isn't, he would not have deserved the shabby and disrespectful treatment he suffered at the hands of a number of people, from the tenured music faculty all the way to the president. But Hammond is far from unspectacular, and it would appear that his claims of discrimination because of jealousy of his many accomplishments and abilities are well-founded.

One of only three virtuosos of the natural horn in the United States and a former member of the Boston Symphony and the Boston Pops, Hammond's musical dossier glitters, as do — albeit contradictory to themselves — the findings of the same people who skewered Hammond's efforts to gain tenure. In the document sent to Dr. Robert Roubos indicating that it had voted negatively for tenure, the promotion and tenure committee described Hammond as an excellent teacher, an internationally recognized artist on the natural horn, and an instructor whose creative activities earned him an international reputation that reflected credit on the School of Music.

IT IS FRIGHTENING to imagine how the promotion and tenure committee would react to someone not so talented and respected as Hammond.

The Hammond case is pathetic, both for the blatant disrespect shown to a talented musician and the narrow-mindedness that poisoned the decision-making process of high-placed University administrators. Justice evidently is an elusive animal to snare at SIU-C. Let's hope the same will not be said of this state's judicial system.

Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram

All is not shipshape with the Navy. A federal report says an investigation shows that four of the Navy's largest bases, including the West Coast home port of the Trident ballistic missile submarine fleet, have security problems. The Navy has taken some corrective action, the report says, but overall naval base security still is a matter of concern.

If the General Accounting Office, which conducted the investigation, can find easy access to some navy facilities, as it did, think what an enemy bent upon sabotage could do. It is unsettling, to say the least.

The Navy needs to get the lax out, for how well will it sail if its security boat has a hole in it?

Poor handling of Hammond case sheds negative light on University

The recent SIU-C Faculty Senate meeting which centered on the word collegiality shows once again that normal academic principles and concern for faculty welfare are sadly lacking at SIU-C. Instead of properly chastising President Guyon for his poor handling of Professor Hammond's tenure review and the Board of Education for its action of once again mistreating the faculty, this body continues to act as apologists for these administrators and fails to adequately represent the faculty.

Why does John Guyon follow University rules only when it suits him, and why does the Faculty Senate allow this to happen? Had they bothered to read the faculty handbook they would have found clear statements that Professor Hammond's tenure denial must be reviewed.

Let us see what the statutes say:

Article V, entitled "The Tenure Decision Process," of the Faculty Handbook clearly states that "the criteria to be considered in the tenure decision process are teaching, research and service," that "there shall be minimum University-wide tenure standards for teaching, research and service" that individual units "shall translate these standards into guidelines" and that "all newly appointed faculty are explicitly apprised of the criteria, standards and guidelines." In addition, this document states that a vote of the tenured faculty can be overruled "in cases of failure to observe the standards."

The evidence of excellence in Professor Hammond's case and the yearly reviews by his chairmen and dean strongly suggests that he has met the standards for tenure and that individuals in the Department of Music have failed to follow the criteria, standards and guidelines in their tenure review.

While these individuals may vote as they please, President Guyon, the JRB Grievance Panel, the Faculty Senate and the Board of Trustees are irresponsible in ignoring the stated rules of the University. Without a hearing, reasonable people can only wonder if the reports that Professor Hammond is being punished for his actions as an assistant chairman or for his vote against splitting the C and P Department are true.

How can John Guyon allow an untenured person to perform as assistant chairman and to vote against his dean on an important advisory committee without protecting this person from the expected political problems with colleagues and administrators which may occur? How can Professor Hammond's yearly evaluation by his chairman and dean be so good and why are they so inconsistent with the tenure vote? How can the Faculty Senate allow special criteria and standards to decide tenure for Professor Hammond?

The larger questions are what will become of SIU-C and what has become of the Faculty Senate? Don't they have anything to do? Are problems such as fair treatment of faculty, unworkable grievance procedures, very low faculty salaries, no pay raises, deep cuts in our budget, the continual raiding of our retirement fund, a Board of Trustees that costs yearly almost $2 million to run and gives us nothing in return, a chancellor that cannot represent us in dealings with the legislature and the continuing "financial necessity" statutes not worthy of their time? Who will save SIU-C from our continuing descent in becoming a third-rate University? Is anyone safe if a chairman or dean can use untenured colleagues to justify their decisions?

There is nothing wrong with the statutes. Changing them will only legitimize the problems we face and make it easier to punish people because they are different or have made unpopular decisions. What is needed is a proper review to ensure fair play for those like Hammond and to decide whether the academic standards have been met. What is also needed is a responsible Faculty Senate and a competent Board, Chancellor and President of SIU-C. — John Gregory, professor of math.

Commemorative poetry reading to honor 'creator' of Gus Bode

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

A poetry reading of the late Dee Alexander's work will be held Friday by his family to commemorate his death.

The reading will be held 4 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 301 S. University, Carbondale.

Alexander, 49, an alumnus of the University, died Nov. 25 at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

Alexander, who attended the University from spring 1955 to fall 1961, received a bachelor's degree in government and a minor in philosophy. He also received a master's in government and philosophy.

While he was a student, he and Jim Stumpf, who is now of Panama City, Fla., are said to have created the graffiti character Gus Bode. They announced the arrival of Gus by plastering labels in public restrooms on campus and around Carbondale.

The labels were designed much like World War II "Kilroy was here" graffiti. Then, they produced a series of secret messages seemingly from Gus himself.

The character was created for the Daily Egyptian editorial page, and then moved to the front page on April 13, 1956.

Alexander taught at the University of Kansas and at Indiana University, concentrating on finding methods for transformational analysis of the American language. Later at RCA Instructional Systems, he helped design some of the first computer assisted instructional systems.

Alexander also was a poet, and in the mid-1960's published "Not a Word" (Oyez 1966), "Terms of Articulation" (Caterpillar, 1967), "Mules Balk" (Matter Books 1967), "Camels Coming" (Oyez, 1968), and "Some Love Poems and Some Don't" (Caterpillar, 1969). Shorter collections of his work also appeared in magazines. He founded Odda Tala Press and "Odda Tala" (a poetry magazine).

Alexander was expelled from the University of Mississippi in 1960 for his efforts to recruit blacks into higher education.

Alexander spent his last two and a half years writing books. A number of his unpublished manuscripts will be published through Odda Tala Press if they receive financing. Contributions to support this project may be sent to Jon Alexander, Odda Tala Press, 610 West Main Street, Carbondale, Illinois, 62901.

Survivors include his son, Day Alexander; his mother, Ola Alexander; and his brother, Jon Alexander.

Chicago's mayor hopefuls meet

CHICAGO (UPI) — The two top candidates to be the city's next mayor met privately Tuesday night, delaying a showdown vote between the late Mayor Harold Washington's "reform" followers and old-guard "machine" Democrats.

A special session of the City Council had been scheduled for 6:30 p.m. to select a new mayor. But the vote was delayed when a quorum of 26 aldermen failed to materialize as Alderman Tim Evans and Eugene Sawyer held their meeting and other aldermen from the two camps huddled in caucus sessions.

Evans, 44, Washington's floor leader and chairman of the powerful Finance Committee, and Sawyer, 54, the longest-serving black in the City Council and a man with ties to the Democratic organization, are the two leading candidates to become the next mayor of the nation's third-largest city.

Alderman Bernard Stone, a white, who recently left the Democratic Party and became a Republican to run for recorder of deeds, also jumped into the fray Tuesday, sparking speculation no one in the council — including the two black front-runners — had the necessary 26 votes to become acting mayor.

"We have been in contact with Bishop Roman and are prepared to involve him in the process of achieving a peaceful resolution to this incident when it is appropriate," Korten said.

Cubans controlling the Atlanta prison since Nov. 23 have asked that the Cuban-born Roman be included in talks aimed at resolving the uprising. The Miami church leader was instrumental in orchestrating a peaceful end Sunday to a weeklong prison revolt by Cubans in Oakdale, La.

In Washington, Bureau of Prisons Director Michael Quinlan revealed that three Cuban-Americans had withdrawn from the Atlanta negotiations because of a recalcitrant group of inmates' refusal to compromise, and indicated that Roman would not be brought in until that situation was resolved.

"Until such point as the detainees themselves have their act together, it doesn't seem practical to us," Quinlan said. "The bishop has indicated he does not want to be a negotiator. He wants to come in and serve as a facilitator of resolving the situation."

Cuban refugees held at the Atlanta and Oakdale prisons rioted, set fires and took hostages to prevent them from being deported back to their homeland under a U.S.-Cuban agreement.

Prison officials said earlier in the week they were hesitant to involve Roman and other "third parties" in the negotiations. But Monday, authorities conceded the bishop's involvement might help bring the ordeal to a close.

rerouting because the University does not have the equipment — 350 feet of 8 inch water line, Lerch said.

If the water cannot be turned back on, officials will hold a meeting this morning to decide if the line needs to be rerouted. Lerch said the cost of rerouting the line and the delay it would cause in turning the water back on has not been determined.

The cause of the break isn't known, but Lerch said changes in the weather, such as temperature, usually cause breaks in water lines.

Music competition offers $15,000 to composers

Student composers will be awarded $15,000 in the 36th Broadcast Music Incorporated (BMI) Awards to Student Composers competition.

The awards program was established by BMI in 1951 to encourage young composers in the creation of concert music. Cash prizes ranging from $500 to $2,500 are awarded to aid student composers in continuing their education.

The competition is open to any music student living in the Western Hemisphere who is enrolled in an accredited secondary school, college, or conservatory or studying privately with a recognized teacher. Entrants must be under 26 years of age on Dec. 31, 1987.

There are no limitations as to instrumentation, stylistic considerations or length of work submitted. Students can enter only one composition, which need not have been composed during the year of entry.

More than 50 percent of the music played on American radio is licensed by BMI. BMI also has agreements with many foreign performing rights licensing organizations to make its music available there.

Deadline for entries is Feb. 12, 1988. Official rules and entry blanks are available from Barbara A. Petersen, Director, BMI Awards to Student Composers, 320 W. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

AIDS testing to be requirement for aliens seeking U.S. residency

By United Press International

The United States Tuesday began requiring all immigrants to take — and pass — an AIDS test. Aliens applying for legal residency must pay for their own tests and no appeal is possible for anyone who tests positive for the fatal virus.

Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said the requirement amounts to "just one more test in a routine examination" already given by INS-approved doctors, and reported no problems on the first day of AIDS testing.

"For years, we've required that immigrants undergo medical exams to test for various dangerous diseases — tuberculosis for example," said Ernest Gustafson, INS district director in Los Angeles. "Now, they must also get an AIDS test."

A spokesman for a gay rights group said the new policy was "foolish" because of the "imprecision of the test," but some alien rights groups said the biggest problem for immigrants would be the cost of a test — about $50.

"These people are so used to overcoming hurdles, that one more requirement is not going to discourage them," said the Rev. Rick Matty, who is in charge of the U.S. Catholic Conference on Immigration and Refugees, which is handling most amnesty applications in the El Paso Texas, border area.

"The only part that is going to hurt is the additional fee. There are many applicants who are low-income people and the additional charge will be a strain, Matty said.

The new policy requires anyone applying for permanent resident status to take the test for the acquired immune deficiency syndrome virus, including illegal aliens applying for amnesty under the 1986 Immigration Control and Reform Act.

Those who test positive would be denied entry into the United States. No appeal is possible, but waivers could be granted in rare cases when "there is no likelihood of infection of others," said Omar Bangs, INS chief legalization officer in San Antonio.

"For instance, if you had a child who contracted AIDS through blood transfusions and resided here with his parents who are eligible for legalization — something of that nature," Bangs said.

Although the information can be used to deport permanent resident applicants who test positive, AIDS information cannot be used in deportation hearings for illegal immigrants, immigration examiner Joseph Cuddihy said.

INS officials surveyed Tuesday reported business as usual.

Amy Otten, spokesman for the INS Eastern Region, which includes Puerto Rico and 13 states, said, "Nothing in particular is planned to happen."

Perry Rivkind, INS district director in Miami, said he had no information on the number of immigrants who got the blood test for the AIDS virus.

Pete Reyes of the INS in El Paso, Texas, said the new policy caused no problems since doctors who have been approved to provide medical exams already had been given the government's new requirements.

Dr. Henry Calderoni, who has been approved to examine applicants in El Paso, said doctors had been testing for the virus when AIDS was suspected but now would just test all those seeking legal status in the United States. He said all blood samples must be sent to laboratories approved by the INS.

Calderoni said he would charge $45 for the procedure. Gustafson said the INS had imposed a $60 cap for the test in Los Angeles.

Transplant pioneer focuses on research

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Dr. Christian Barnard, who stunned the world 20 years ago with the first heart transplant, has shifted his focus from the operating room to research he hopes will give surgeons extra life-saving minutes.

"We have been concentrating on the management of the donor," Barnard said Tuesday, explaining he and his fellow researchers are trying to buy time for surgeons by keeping the donor heart in prime condition for longer periods.

"We are studying how brain death in an individual ... affects the heart and other organs," he said.

It was at Groote Schuur Hospital in Cape Town, South Africa, on Dec. 3, 1967, that Barnard, now 65, and his team of surgeons transplanted the heart of a 25-year-old accident victim into the chest of Louis Washkansky, 55. The patient lived 18 days.

"There was not a single person outside the hospital the day of the operation. There are no pictures of the operation," Barnard said.

"The thing that surprised me is that it took such a long time before it was accepted in most parts of the world. I don't know why there was such a lack of interest for virtually 10 years. We had achieved acceptable results."

The first patients received new hearts before modern anti-rejection drugs were available, but four of them lived 1 1/2 years, several lived 10 years and one is alive 17 years after surgery, he said.

He considers his work on congenital heart disease and the treatment of children born with abnormal hearts to be his most important achievements. Barnard also developed a treatment for tuberculosis meningitis, two techniques for surgical heart repair and a synthetic heart valve.

U.S. issues warning

Government discourages travel to Haiti

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States issued a warning Tuesday against travel to Haiti and called on the military government of Haiti to "arrest, prosecute and punish" the marauding gangs that disrupted national elections.

The department issued figures that showed the United States is suspending $62 million in economic aid, pending a restoration of order in Haiti, and has cancelled plans to ask Congress for another $4 million in military assistance for the Haitian government.

Another $32 million in humanitarian and food aid will be permitted to go to Haiti.

The travel advisory by the State Department warns Americans to postpone "all non-essential travel" to Haiti, in light of the gang attacks that killed at least 24 people in polling places on Sunday and because of the inability of the Haitian military to provide security.

Some members of the U.S. observer delegation that went to Haiti for the elections reported that some of the shooting of innocent people was done "by people in blue uniforms," the color worn by Haitian security forces.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the United States had seen the reports but had no evidence to back it up.

"The crucial factor," he said, "is that the violence — whoever perpetrated it — was allowed to disrupt these elections."

Redman said, "It is now incumbent on the government of Haiti to take dramatic and credible steps to demonstrate it will arrest, prosecute and punish those responsible for this blow against democracy and to stop the violence."

One of the nine U.S. official observers who was permitted to enter Haiti, Ernst Exceus, of the Council of the Americas, said the Haitian military were "overtly passive" when the violence broke out.

Exceus said, "It was clear that the army brass were unable to control their troops, unable to master the will."

He said the disruption of the elections was "very disheartening."

Exceus and some U.S. officials said the source of the violence "were those people intent on bringing back (Jean-Claude) Duvalier," the exiled president-for-life.

He identified the main Duvalier backers as "industrialists, the traditional monopolists in Haiti who cannot tolerate democracy."

U.S. seeks Haitian democracy

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The United States, unable to prevent violence and canceled elections despite an infusion of aid to the interim junta, still hopes for democracy in Haiti, a U.S. official said Tuesday.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the United States does not have as much clout in the impoverished Caribbean country as some critics claim.

"Our leverage here has always been far less than what many Haitians and Americans thought it would be," said the official. "Rationally, $100 million (in U.S. aid) should buy a lot of leverage, (but) clearly $100 million doesn't buy much leverage."

The Oversight Provisional Electoral Council called off elections Sunday — Haiti's first in 30 years — after attacks by gunmen in civilian and military garb killed at least 34 people. Soldiers and police stood by as the gunmen fired at random on civilians attempting to vote.

The election violence sparked demonstrations by

A Pan Am jet chartered by the U.S. State Department left Francois Duvalier International Airport Tuesday carrying American journalists who had been unable to leave the country.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Stewart King said the State Department chartered the plane because of numerous requests from journalists seeking to leave Haiti. He said there were no regularly scheduled flights out of Port-au-Prince Tuesday.

A Dominican cameraman was killed and five newsmen wounded in the violence Sunday.

Many of the gunmen who disrupted the Haitian elections were widely believed to be Ton-Tons Macoutes, who were members of the private army of the Duvalier dictatorship.

The United States remains committed to democracy in Haiti, the poorest country in the Western hemisphere, the U.S. official said Tuesday.

"Abandoning this country will not work toward that process" of democratization, he said. "Turning our back on Haiti is not going to encourage democracy here."

The United States spent $8.1 million in preparation for the elections Sunday, nine times the amount spent by the Haitian government. It suspended more than $75 million in non-humanitarian aid and $1.5 million in railway assistance after the violence.

Space station to become reality; $ 5 billion contract awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NASA awarded contracts worth $5 billion Tuesday for construction of a manned space station, a project that will create 12,000 jobs in the agency's most ambitious venture since the glory days of the Apollo moon program.

Gambling on an uncertain budget, NASA Administrator James Fletcher ended months of suspense about the immediate future of the costly project, saying, "The best minds of the nation went to work on this competition and all of the proposals that we received were outstanding."

The agency hopes to win approval to expand the station once it is permanently manned in the mid 1990s. Such approval is gained, Fletcher said the contracts would be worth an additional $1.5 billion for a total of about $6.5 billion.

"NEEDLESS to say, we expected the best in all aspects ... and I'm sure we have the best," he said. "The nation can rest assured the top people in the American aerospace industry will design and build the space station, which in my mind is so vital to our country's future in space."

The space station, a giant 445-foot-wide orbital outpost, is scheduled to be assembled in space starting in 1994 with permanent operations beginning in 1996. The project is expected to cost at least $23 billion over the next 10 years when transportation and administrative costs are figured in.

The award of design and development contracts Tuesday marked the most significant step yet in the station's evolution since President Reagan endorsed the program in 1984.

At a news conference held at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., Andrew Stofan, associate administrator for the space station project, said that while the contract amounts will be refined in coming weeks, they will create about 12,000 jobs across the United States.

At the Johnson Space Center in Houston, a contractor team led by McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co. won a contract worth an estimated $1.2 billion and possibly up to $2.04 billion to build the station's framework and a variety of subsystems. Stofan said the work will create about 4,050 jobs, most in California and Texas.

IN WINNING the contract, the St. Louis company defeated a team led by Rockwell International Corp. of Downey, Calif., which currently holds a contract to build a new space shuttle to replace Challenger.

In the only other hotly contested contract, a group headed by Boeing Aerospace Co. of Huntsville, Ala., beat out a team led by Martin Marietta Corp. of New Orleans to build the station's crew modules. The contract is valued at some $750 million with an option for an additional $25 million if the space station is upgraded at a later date as NASA wishes.

The Boeing package will create about 2,900 jobs, with most in Alabama and California.

"I THINK this announcement today signals the start of a new golden age of exploration in space," said Alabama Gov. Guy Hunt. "And to borrow and paraphrase a comment from that last golden age, this is one small step for man and one giant leap for Alabama."

The two other major contract packages went to Rockwell International's Rocketdyne division and General Electric Co. and its subsidiary RCA Corp., which were awarded contracts worth $1.5 billion and $800 million, respectively, to build the station's power systems and an orbital science platform.

Stofan said the Rocketdyne package, which will be managed by the Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, will create about 3,230 jobs, most in California. Another 1,540 jobs will be created in Pennsylvania and other states under the General Electric work package, managed at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt.

OVERALL MANAGEMENT responsibility for the project rests with the space station program office in Reston, Va.

One potential stumbling block for the project is participation by the European Space Agency, Canada and Japan, but Fletcher said he is optimistic negotiations will prove successful.

Spiker captain's comeback hampered by injured knee

By Troy Tavior
Staff Writer

The volleyball team's season ended Saturday when nationally ranked Nebraska rolled past the Salukis in three games.

It's time to forget the 15-19 record and get back to work for next season, captain Sue Sinclair said.

"This week and next we're still getting into the gym, even though the coaches can't be there," Sinclair said. "We are hitting a few balls around, staying in touch with the game."

The prospects for 1988 look promising. The Salukis return five starters, and possibly Sinclair.

Sinclair, a senior who didn't play this season because of a knee injury, applied for another year of eligibility early in November. Her hardship application will be reviewed in December and she will be notified of the review committee's decision in early January.

"That's the hard part, waiting to see if I'm accepted," Sinclair said.

In the meantime, Sinclair is hard at work conditioning and strengthening her right knee.

"The knee's coming along pretty good. I was fitted for a new brace, and as soon as I test out, I can play. My biggest limitation is that I can't do any cutting movements. But I can do stationary drills such as jumping. I begin jump training in the pool tomorrow. I'm hoping that will bring my strength along faster," Sinclair said.

The past two years have been frustrating for Sinclair, who has had to baby her knee since injuring it in an intramural basketball game in March 1986.

Sue Sinclair

Sinclair underwent a major operation in March of 1986, then played a portion of her junior season. On May 19 she had arthroscopic surgery in order to play this season.

But on Aug. 27, the knee buckled during a preseason scrimmage. She underwent an arthrogram, in which the knee is examined without surgery, and was forced to watch this season from the sidelines.

Sinclair put the time to good use, though. She studied her opponents, gleaned skills and strategy through observation from the bench.

"I think that gives me an edge. Even though by next year it will be more than a year since I've really played, I still have learned a lot from just watching. I've picked things up from watching the setters from the other teams," Sinclair said.

Sinclair plans to intensify her training, eventually including weights and distance running. While she won't be eligible for the spring season, she hopes she can latch on to a club team and play.

"It's just a matter of getting back out there."

Holmes, Tyson will fight for title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Holmes, a 38-year-old grandfather, Tuesday said it is time to teach 21-year-old heavyweight champion Mike Tyson some respect.

Holmes, who held the heavyweight title for 7½ years, will end a 21-month layoff when he challenges Tyson Jan. 22 in Atlantic City, N.J. When the two met at a news conference Tuesday, Holmes was upset at what he considered a snub by Tyson.

"I always shake hands with my opponents," said Holmes, who is 48-2. "When I reached out to shake Mike Tyson's hand, he pulled away like I'm a piece of crap. I'm a people person. I'm a people's champion. I know how to treat people and when Mike Tyson learns that he'll be a great human being."

"I had a great deal of respect for Mike Tyson. I have his picture on the wall of my office and it's the biggest one up there next to mine and Ali's. It'll come down now."

Tyson said he refused to shake Holmes' hand "because I wanted to."

"I don't like Larry Holmes."

he said.

Tyson, 32-0 with 28 knockouts, is the youngest heavyweight champion but Holmes said youth is no excuse for acting rude.

"He's got two guys who are very educated around him, so don't tell me it's because he's young," Holmes said, referring to Tyson's co-managers, Jim Jacobs and Bill Cayton.

"My little 5-year-old son (Larry Jr.) wouldn't do that. If you put your hand out he'll shake it, even if he's mad."

Tyson did praise Holmes as a fighter. He said it is unfair to liken Holmes to other heavyweight champions — such as Jack Johnson, Joe Louis and Muhammad Ali — who failed miserably in comebacks.

"I take the fight very seriously," Tyson said. "You can't compare Holmes to those other fighters because they no longer had anything to offer their opponents. They were shot. Larry Holmes can still fight. He went 15 rounds in his last fight and he won." They just didn't give it to him."

Salukis selected to GCAC all-conference grid teams

Saluki offensive tackle Dave Smith and defensive lineman Brad Crouse were named first-team all-Gateway Conference selections.

Crouse, who missed part of the season with a knee injury, finished with 60 tackles including 25 that were unassisted.

Running back Byron Mitchell, linebackers Ezell

Shelton and Mike Carbonaro, and defensive back Jay Hurdle were named to the second team.

Mitchell gained 726 yards and averaged 4.4 yards per carry. Shelton led the Salukis with 126 tackles, which included 72 solo tackles. Carbonaro had 96 tackles, with 53 unassisted. Hurdle had three interceptions and 90 tackles, including 50 solo tackles.

Schroeder starts at quarterback when Redskins meet St. Louis

HERNDON, Va. (UPI) — Jay Schroeder, restored as the Washington Redskins' starting quarterback, sees "no guarantees" that the job is his past Sunday's game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Schroeder, who set a club record for passing and was a Pro Bowl selection last season, was benched in favor of Doug Williams in the second quarter of a Nov. 15 game against the Detroit Lions. He returned to the starting lineup Sunday to lead a 23-19 victory over the New York Giants.

Coach Joe Gibbs Monday said Schroeder's performance against the Giants won him the job. Ironically, Schroeder played only because Williams benched himself because of a back injury suffered in practice.

Schroeder said he must produce or will be benched again.

"I have to perform, just as always," he said. "Nothing's guaranteed — no guarantees."

The NFC East-leading Redskins, 8-3, travel to face the Cardinals Sunday. A victory would clinch their fourth division title in seven years.

"Any time I step on the football field, I'm going to do whatever I think I can do to help this team win."

Tar Heels voted top cagers but coach says it won't last

NEW YORK (UPI) — North Carolina is college basketball's No. 1 team, a notion that amuses coach Dean Smith.

"I find it ludicrous," he said. "We may as well enjoy it while we can because we won't be there very long. To lose four of our first six (players) from last year and have just one senior and two juniors and be ranked No. 1 in December has to be a first. This is a tribute to our past teams more than it is to this team."

The Tar Heels, ranked second behind Syracuse in preseason rankings, Tuesday collected 520 points and 23 of 40 first-place votes by the United Press International Board of Coaches. Voting was based on 15 points for first place, 14 for second, etc. Two coaches on the board failed to vote.

Syracuse dropped to No. 2 with 417 points and one first-place vote. The Orangemen lost 80-69 to Arizona in the final of the Great Alaska Shootout, but all votes were cast before Monday night's championship game. Rounding out the Top 10 were No. 3 Indiana followed by Pittsburgh, Kentucky, Florida, Arizona, Missouri, Duke and Iowa. Indiana and Kentucky each received four first-place votes, Pittsburgh had three, Iowa picked up two and Florida, Arizona and Duke had one apiece.

Wyoming was ranked No. 11, then Georgetown, Michigan, Purdue, Temple, Louisville, Oklahoma, Nevada-Las Vegas, Kansas and North Carolina State.

The Tar Heels opened the season by beating Syracuse despite playing without center J.R. Reid and forward Steve Bucknall, who were suspended for their involvement in a tussle at a bar in Raleigh, N.C. North Carolina improved to 3-0 over the weekend by beating Southern Cal and Richmond at the Central Fidelity Holiday Classic in Richmond, Va.

The Tar Heels have a relatively soft schedule this month, with their toughest opponents expected to be Southern Methodist and Illinois.

Florida, Arizona and Iowa had the most impressive weeks of the ranked teams. The Gators won the Big Apple NIT and jumped 11 spots in the ratings while Arizona improved three places by virtue of their play at the Shootout. The Hawkeyes vaulted four places after defeating Stanford, Kansas and Villanova in capturing the Maui Classic in Hawaii.

Kansas had the biggest plunge, falling 11 spots. Michigan dropped nine and Purdue eight. The Jayhawks lost twice during the week, the Wolverines were beaten by Arizona in the Shootout semifinals, and Purdue fell at home to Iowa State.

Georgia Tech and DePaul each lost last week and dropped from the rankings. Oklahoma and North Carolina State were the new members of the Top 20.
